

The purpose of the World Francophone E-University (UNFM) is to use the internet and communication technologies to promote, develop and spread high quality education programmes throughout countries in need. These training programmes target practising professionals and are generally created and performed by experts from the receiving nations in order to adapt to the local context. They come in addition to the wide range of actions undertaken by the francophonie training scheme.

<http://www.unfm.org/>